9.0 CONCLUSION

Finally, the EA and the defined projects, initiatives, and activities will serve as a resource and guide for the State's IT practitioners within the LOBs and Departments as they make tactical and strategic decisions about the development, modernization, enhancement, maintenance, retirement of technology. It also provides a basis for the evaluation of technology plans by the Chief Information Officer (CIO), Office of Information Management and Technology (OIMT), Department leadership and IT management, Executive Leadership Council (ELC), and CIO Council (CIOC) and IT Steering Committee who are ultimately responsible for ensuring:

- State government is costeffectively and efficiently managing all resources (e.g., investments, revenues, employees, IT) and delivering services and programs to all stakeholders (e.g., people of Hawai`i, citizens, residents, businesses, cities, counties, State employees, State government, business partners) in a manner they want/need; and
- operating in an aligned, streamlined, and integrated manner so that stakeholders' service expectations and information needs are met in terms of quality, timeliness, reliability, and transparency.
